THE contract for constructing New Vork's new aqueduct was let to two firms Saturday for $11,911,607. Rather a healthy contract that.

CAPT. HOWGATE comes to the attention of the public again rather queerly. One suggestion of the story, printed elsewhere, is that the government now has a clew that a skillful detective should be able to follow up to the hiding place of the fugitive and bring him to long-evaded punishment.

THE Wisconsin democracy has commenced to divide the federal spoils of that state. A few of the leaders are for moderation, but the majority are in favor of immediate decapitation of all republican officeholders. Efforts will be made to convert the minority to the views of the majority.

Possiniy the democracy may conclude that it is a good thing for the government to own and run the telegraph lines of the country now that the offices are at its disposal. The patronage of the administration would be increased, and there is no longer jeopardy to the constitution in are soon to be democrats.

REPRESENTATIVE HOLMAN'S mony does not always meet with favor among his party associates. An additional force of laborers was needed last session in the document room of the house. Holman objected, and now demoeratic members have discovered that many of their speeches, which they supposed were being read by admiring constituents, are still in the document room, where they have been partially devoured

LONDON has been thoroughly alarmed by the latest exploit of the dynamiters. who attempted to blow up London bridge on Saturday afternoon. It is evident enough from the dispatches that the person who exploded the dynamite failed to produce any worse result than a tredows, but that, while a cause for present congratulation, will not prevent anxious Londoners from reflecting that another such attempt upon the always crowded bridge may result in a fearful loss of life and property.

IT is estimated, and it is a low estimate, that there will be five applicants for every office in the gift of the next administration-500,000 eager and expect-ant ones. If a clean sweep be made at least 400,000 democrats and mugwumps must put on sack-cloth and ashes during the next year. On the other hand, if President Cleveland makes haste slowly in the matter of removals and appointments, 500,000 patriots will add their testimony to those who have gone before on the ingratitude of republics.

Some of the seed sown by the demoeratic orators in the late campaign has as this early day spouted and borne fruit. One Indiana statesman told his hearers that there was sufficient surplus in the treasury to give each man, woman, and child in the country $800, if it were Miss., which contain less than four thouand distributed among the pe ple. A Hoosier has recently written to that have government buildings for their the secretary of the treasury that there are six in his family, and that if he can receive his $4,800 it will be of great assistauce to him the coming winter, and, so to speak, put him on his feet. He wants his six shares immediately.

THE democratic national committee has appointed a Committee of Fifty from among the residents of the district and formally given into their hands charge and control of the inauguration ceremonies. Elsewhere we print the letter of appointment and the names of the gentlemen selected. Very properly, the | we think we are modest in our demands committee has been made non-partisan, for a new postoffice building. If Harrisas will also the subcommittees to be anpointed hereafter. The Democracy Now on Trial. What does the democratic house propose to do this winter? Simply felicitate itself upon its prospects of soon enjoying the spoils of political warfare, pass the regular appropriation bills, and await the millenium that it is expected will closely follow the inauguration of Cleveland The country expects more of you, gentlemen. A republican senate is just as effectual in blocking partisan enactments, or giving the negative to vicious legislation, as a republican senate and executive combined. If the democratic party has any distinctive policy other than that of obstructionists it is none too early at this session to make it known. What the democratic house of the forty-eighth congress does that is wise, will contribute MMR. MARIE COLOMBIER is undergoing a fortnight's confinement in prison at Paris. This is the extent of the punishment which to the confidence with which the democratic house of the forty-ninth congress will be met at the opening of its first seasion. If the course of the democratic party at this session is cowardly, the distrust of that party will increase during the nine months that will intervene between March and December, 1885. In Regard to City Postomees The vast mail of the United States government passes through the postoffice of Washington. There is no other outlet for the letters, circulars, and reports of the departments, nor for the letters and speeches of congressmen. There is no way of addressing the departments or congress by letter save through this same Washington postoffice, and going or coming, the whole correspondence of the federal government begins or ends its travels through the mails at the insecure and incommodious building on Louisiana avenue. In other towns and cities of the country, when the postoffice building is inadequate to the wants of the community, and no location suitable can be leased for that purpose, application is made to congress for an appropriation for a public building to be used as a postoffice. Congress has not turned a deaf ear to these requests, as may be seen from an examination of the records the supervising architect's office. No particular number of inhabitants is required to secure government aid, nor is a large amount of business always a prerequisite to successful application. Those buildings are an ornament to any town, and congressmen have taken pride in securing them for their constituents. To say nothing of cities equal to and exceeding Washington in population, an army of federal office-holders, as they we give in this connection a partial list of cities and towns of less than 50,000 inhabitants that have considered their postoffice accommodations incomplete in leased premises, and have secured from congress appropriations for public build ings to be used for this purpose :

When a legitlinate vacancy exists, and a democrat of character and ability is selected to fill it, let him be confirmed without opposition; but should the president undertake to make wholesale removals, which we hardly think he will do, then it will become the duty of a republican senate to draw a line and determine whether it will be best for the country to substitute incompetent democrats for well-tried, computent republicans.—Clereland Leader.

It is our judgment that the so-called McPhersen bill, so far from being a remedy for the ills inherent in the present situation, is calculated to aggravate and perpetuate them. The one defect in our system of bank currency—and it is a very grave one—is that, while it is elastic, its movements depend not solely or principally on the demands of trade, but upon the flactuations of the bond market. Under the influence of these there may be contraction when expansion is needed. be contraction when expansion is needed, or vice versa. A scheme has been invented by the western democrats which promises well for the comfort of those members of the party whose aspirations for congressional honors were not indorsed by their constituency.
